

TRINITY NEWS

EASTER.

Here we are again. Surprised by life in what appeared to be death. Inspired by the love of God who raised Jesus from the grave. Now what? I guess we can strive with all our intellect and energy for justice and peace. But before we do, this day reminds us we are in a partnership with God. We can be tempted to leave this sacred space of The Holy Trinity Church and do something, anything that would make a difference to a world because it is too painful not to make a difference. Without the partnership of Christ our efforts may fall into futility. We may miss the essence of Easter, distracted by our own actions even if they appear good or nice.

The beauty of the resurrection is that it shows God's love in action, even if things first appear slow or helpless. Our partnership with God and one another begins by listening to the language of the risen Lord, the one who directs us into a unified body. Mary Magdalene wasn't asked to form a strategic plan for world peace, but simply to go and tell the others what she saw. When we have courage to listen in the miraculous stillness of Easter morning, like Mary we become the risen body of Christ, playing out our lives like an orchestra of new possibilities, where everyone is invited to play their beautiful unique tune.

He has Risen.
