

TRINITY NEWS

Jesus makes a firm point of not being a ghost in Luke's account. He said he is flesh and bones, touch me and I'll prove it. This is good news, not only is Jesus resurrected, his humanity remained down to earth. Right up close where we live, and how we live. Surprising people with his presence when they least expect it. And still giving the blessing of "Peace". The peace Jesus talks about is more than feeling good, it is a new covenant won on the cross. I wonder if the disciples got the message as they gazed upon him quenching his appetite eating the broiled fish in their presence?

Peace be with us.
Fr. Peter
