

TRINITY NEWS

It is understandable we love food. A quick look at Facebook will reveal an overflowing of menus, 'sangkatutak'! Lately in the Gospel according to John we find Jesus desperately trying to feed people, first with the physical, and then with the spiritual. Both forms of food are connected, both are needed. However, it seems Jesus' frustration comes from people's appetite being mostly focused on the bread out of the oven. Jesus becomes the sustaining food which will not perish. God has set the table and invited all. I've been wondering what it is which gives us an appetite for the spiritual, to seek the body and blood of Christ?
